

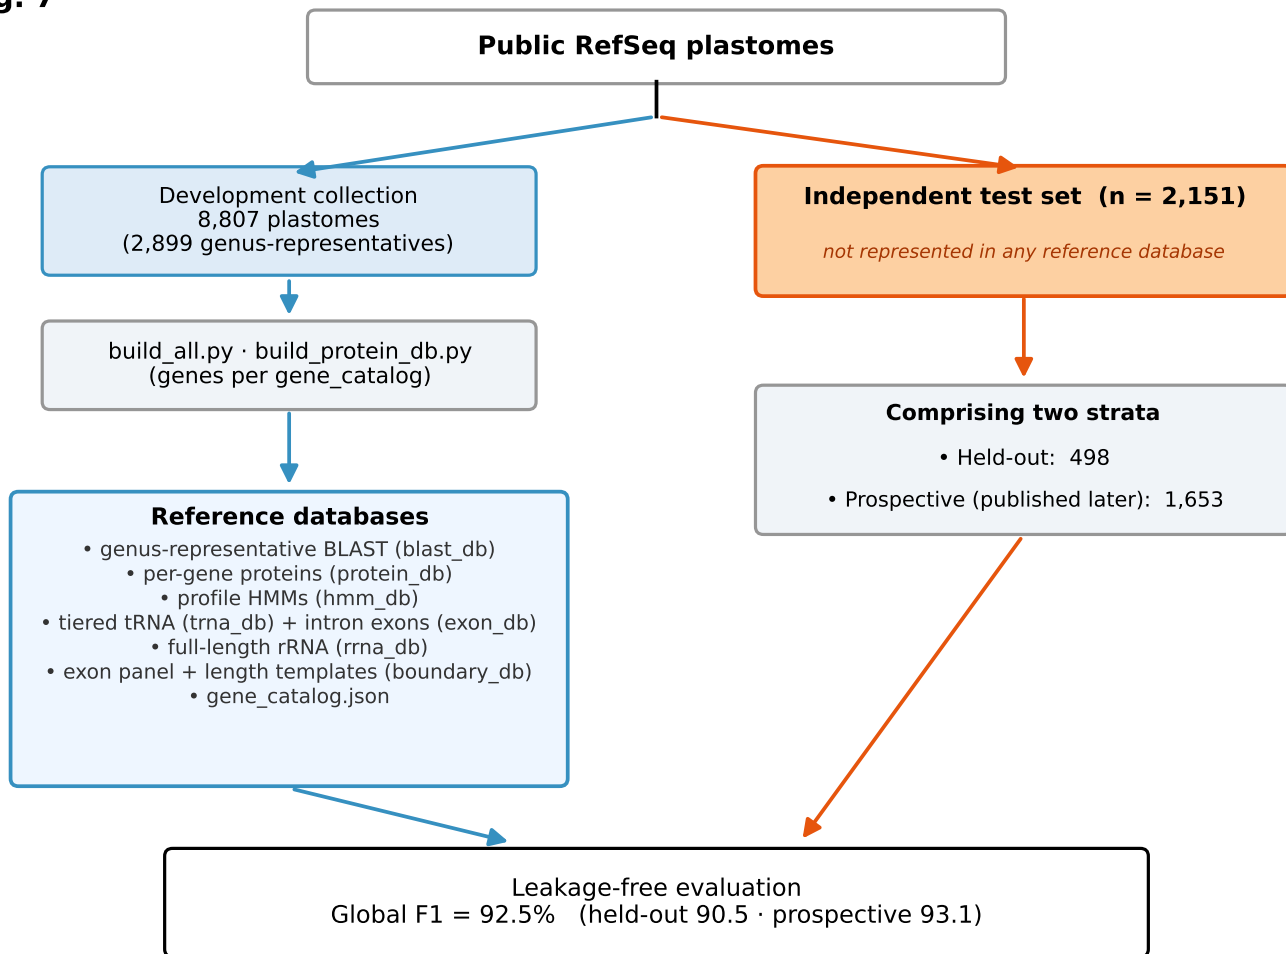

Fig. 7

Reference databases are built from a development collection; the tool is evaluated on an independent set of plastomes not represented in any database — measuring true generalisation.